Anderson's Wear-Easy Shoe

is a shoe made especially for farm use and that will wear "as easy as an old shoe" right from the start. A shoe in which there is not a peg or nail or thread to touch the bottom of the foot. A shoe that is almost as soft and flexible as a lady's hand turned. A shoe with a pure white oak innersole that is cooling to the bottom of the foot; all other every day shoes are made with cheap acid tanned red leather innersoles that burn, scald and blister the feet so badly in hot weather. A shoe that will give more comfort for general farm use than any shoe that has ever been gotten up.

He Was Unable to Stand the Mor- Old and Young Alike Succumb to tification of Arrest for Being Drunk, Morganfield, Ky., July 4.—William Mattingty, a well known citizen of this place, who was connected with some of the best families of the state, committed suicide in the county jail inva peculiar manner. He had been drinking for some time, and his friends had exhausted every means to get him to reform. As a last resort, he was arrested while intoxicated and placed in a cell in the jail, in the bope that the mortification of the arrest might arouse him to a sense of his duty to himself axed in the process of the worse and the state of the county and the county a small fishing line in his vest pocket.

After he had been locked up he doubled this a numbor of times and made a cord strong enough for its purpose. He tied it around the knob of the door and around his to the grave.

He then dropped to the floor and the pressure of the cord was sufficient to kill him. He was found after he had been dead at least an

A LONG JAUNT.

Couple Ride Thirty Miles to Have the Knot Tied,

Mr. Eugene Crick, a young farmer living at Red Hill, near the Hopkins county line, and Miss Sarah E. Jones, of near White Plains, arrived in the city at an early hour yesterday morning, having made the trip of about thirty miles on horseback, and as soon as a license could be procured, were quietly married by County Judge Cansler. The wedding took place in the County Clerk's office. As soon as the ceremony was pronounced the young people took a stroll over the city, made a few purchases, and about noon left for their future home in north-east Christian.

THE LOCALS LOST.

Some Excellent Ball Playing by Both Teams

In the game of ball here Tuesday between the local club and the Allensville nine the latter team won by a score of 6 to 3. Up to the eighth inning the score stood 3 to 3, but the locals then made several errors, letting in three scores to the visitors. The game was witnessed by several hundred people and was hotly contested from start to finish. Another game will likely be arrang ed between the clubs.

WHO THEY ARE.

The Personnel of the Democratic Ticket.

A Good Ticket on a Strong Platform And One Sure to Win.

Brief biographical sketches of the Brief lographical sketches of the Democratic nominees are given below. Their records show them to be men of character who have seen active service in the Democratic ranks. Under the leadership of ranks. Under the leavership c. Mr. Goebel, the whole ticket will present a formidable front to the county, P.a. When a very small months after entering that body he body his parents removed to Kentucky and established their home in Kenton county. H. Paynter, and the latter reciprocated by working teeth and toe nail at the convention just closed to secure the nomination [1,000] votes to the majority in Senator Goebel has been a mem-ber of the State Senate for twelve years, during ten of which time he that been recognized as a Demo-cratic leader. He was chairman of all the Democratic caucuses and was twice chairman pro tem. of the senate. During the regular and extra senatorial races in '96 and '97 he was the leader of the race.

'The Democratic nominee is unmarried. His parents are dead, and his only relatives are Arthur and Justus Goebel, who are broth-ers. Justus is a wealthy Cincin-nati merchant and Arthur is connected with his business. Arthur was in attendance during the con-vention and worked for his brother.

Lieutenant Governor.

The nomination of the Hon. J. C. W. Beckham for the office of Lieutenant Governor is, like the nomination of Senator Goebel for the Gov-ernorship, a victory for the young Democrats of Kentucky. Though not yet thirty years of age, having been born on August 5, 1869, Mr. Beckham is widely known all over the State through service in its legislative halls at Frankfort, where he has sat for three terms, the last 1896.

The nominee comes of one of the oldest families in Kentucky. His father was the Hon. Wm. N. Beckham, of Nelson county, and his mother is the daughter of ex-Gov. Robt, C. Wickliffe, of Louisana, On the first day he was eligible to hold the office, Mr. Beckham was nomin-ated by the Democracy of Nelson county to represent it in the House of Representatives, where he had the course, the completed his educa-years before served as page, thom. He was elected County Clerk Though the youngest member of the when twenty-one years of that body, his voice was often heard age, was twice re-elected to the its counsels. ### Attorney General

For the office of Attorney General of the State the Democratic conven-tion has nominated a man who has grown old in the service of his party and who for four years followed the fortunes of the Southern Confederacy, Judge Robert J. Breckin ridge, of the county of Boyle.

Judge Breckinridge is a member of the noted Kentucky family of that name. He was born in Fayette county September 14, 1835. At the Governor.

Senator William Goebel was born forty-two years ago in Sullivan county, Pa. When a very small boy his parents removed to Kentucky and established their home in Kenton county. breaking out of the war between the States, he enlisted in Hanson's

November.

Auditor,

The nominee for the office of State Auditor, the Hon. Gus G. Coulter, of the county of Graves, is one of the widest-known and most influential politicians in the First Congressional district. He was born in the county of Marshall thirty-eight years ago, his father being C. C. Coulter, at one time a leading lawver in that section of the State

Gus Coulter located in Graves county in early manhood, and has occupied several positions of honor and trust, presented by his home people. He served from 1886 to 1892 as Circuit Clerk of the county, and declined a re-election to that office. He is now Master Commis sioner of the Graves Circuit Court, and practices his profession, the law, at Mayfield. His own merits and an earnest campaign before the people of Western Kentucky se cured for him the nomination, and his friends predict that he will bring out a Democratic majority in that section of the State in November next that will be an increase of that cast in the national election is

Secretary of State.

Judge C. B. Hil', of Clark county who won the nomination for the office of Secretary of State, was born in that part of Owsley which wa afterwards incorporated into th county of Lee. He moved to chester, early in 1898. At the High School of Columbia, Ky., and at the National Normal University of Lebanon, O., where he took a scienposition, and in 1894 was nominated for County Judge and won the fight, although the county was Republican.

He discharged the duties of the position in a manne to win the plaudits of all concerned

Judge Hill is an ardent admirer of Wm. J. Bryan, believes fervently in the Chicago platform, and has al-ways been an earnest, faithful Democrat. He has a fund of ancedotes and humor that make him a delightful companion, and his sonal popularity in Eastern tucky is attested by the fact although several times a candidate although several times a candidate as the Democratic nominee in a Re-publican county he was never beat-en. Judge Hill is at present en-gaged in the practice of his profes-sion and in the real estate business. He promises to make a cor canvass of Eastern Kentucky coming campaign.

Superintendent of Public Instruc

The nominee of the convention for Superintendent of Public Instruc-tion, Harry V. McChesney, of the county of Livingston, is a sterling young Democrat with well defined ideas as to the best means of thro. ling in Kentucky the Book Trust.

Mr. MeChesney was born in the county of Caldwell in 1868, and is consequently just old enough to hold the office under the law. As he ex-presses it himself, Mr. McChesney comes of humble parentage, "a poor as Job's turkey." He received a common school education and be gan as a country school teacher a the age of seventeen, teaching school in winter and himself going to school during the summer months He was elected Superintendent of Common Schools in Livingston re-elected to the office, and is now serving in that capacity. As a di version from his school duties the oninee has for the past three year dited the Livingston Banner, a mithland, the county seat, a Dem cratic newspaper. Mr. McChes ocratic newspaper. Mr. McChes-ney gives much of the credit for winning the nomination to his wite, who was Miss Berna Presnell, o Caldwell county, Early in the campaign she established a campaign bureau at their home Smithland and sent literature ent literature cards announcing the candidacy her husband all over Kentucky.

At twenty-one she was married to Frederick H. sonthworth, and when she first found four years later that it was necessary for her to help support the family, she took a position as a teacher. The opening wedge which short stories made to an income soon caused her to abandon the pedagogue's task and turn entirely to literature. She was able to make the paper which published her sto-ries the most popular periodical of Southworth's novels, which she wrote seventy-five, were which she wrote seventy-five, were full of dramatic incident and excite-ment. Some were lurid and highly sensational, but there is much strong dialogue and good descrip-tive work in them. One novel al-most for each year of her life—that is her record. is her record.

It can be truly said of Mrs. South-It can be truly said of Mrs. South-worth that her novel writing was her life. She had neither time nor inclination for anything else. Her girlhood was uneventful, and her early married life filled with ordiincimation for anything else. Her girlhood was uneventful, and her early married life filled with ordinary family cares, till under stress of recessity she began writing stories for the money they would bring her. She found herself suddenly popular beyond her belief. Buoyed by the confidence of her success, she worked uninterruptedly, publishing for a long period as many as three volumes a year. Then came the weakness and quiet rest of old age, and though in later years she occasionally published something, her pen was by no means steadily consider. something, her pen was by no means steadily occupied.

FIVE HUNDRED

Fat Pullets Lifted From the Roos By Thieves

Chicken thieves continue to raid hen roosts in the city. On Thursday night forty-nine Plymouth Rock chickens were stolen from Dr. L. G. Armendt, and on the same night forty chickens were taken from Mr. Shelby Hicks. The thieves even carried off Mr. Hicks' chicken goop. These depredations on the chicken roosts occur nightly, and the noice estimate that in and the police estimate that in the past week 500 or more chickens have been stolen in the city. So far no clue to the thieves has been obtained. At least, if the police know anything that even puts sus-picion on anybody as a chicken thief, they decline to divulge it.

A negro took a nice fat pullet in-to a Fourth-street grocery the other day and sold it. Upon investiga-tion it was discovered that the negro had just nipped the fowl from the coop, which was in another room, and boldly marched in and sold it to the owner.—Owensboro (Ky.) Messenger.

Mary Baker Eddy.

The upward of 1,000,000 believer and followers that Chiristian Scien tists claim as having registered to-day, all started from the teachings and writings of one individual. That individual is Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, of Concord, N. H. In [1866, while living in Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Eddy (then Mrs. Glover) claims to have met with a se vere accident. Her case was pro vere accident. Her case was pro-nounced hopeless, she says, by the physicians. She claims that she became aware of a "divine illumi-nation and ministration." Her at-tendants believed her to be deliri-ous and at the point of death, when, to their "bewilderment and fright," she claims she rose from her bed she claims she rose from her and walked. "They thought I had died and it was my apparition," she said.

"I felt that the Divine Spirit had wrought a miracle," she said, in re ference to this experience. "How, I could not teil; but later I found it to be in perfect scientific accord with the divine law.

Such is the remarkable claim of Mrs. Eddy, who straightway wrote a book which sells for $5 a copy, and which has been bought by sev eral hundred thousand of her fol-lowers, who study it with a rever-ence second only to the Bible. Today Mrs. Eddy is not only the head of the church, having more than a million avowed followers in the United States, but her word is the sole law of the church. Brigham

BRYAN AND JONES

Never Speak as They Pass By, From All Appearances-A Trip.

Chattanooga, July 3.—Hon. Wil-liam Jennings Bry an passed through here to-day en route to Barnesville, Ga., where he makes an address to-morrow. From Nashville Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist, occupied the Pullman car with Col. Bryan. Trainmen report that they did not speak, and sat in moody silence near each other all the way to Chattanoga. A few months ago Rev. Jones, who is a sound money Democrat, in a newspaper communication ridiculed free silver advocates, and referred facetiously t the small amount of taxes paid by Col. Bryan. The latter made a spirited reply. This explains the personal coolness between them.

make them run an engine. Mr. Mediloff, of coirse, caused his bacteria to produce feminentation and then used the resulting gas for powes. Following out this plan, a person might operates small toy engine with the force generated in a bottle of root beer, or with the gas produced by yeast, in raising bread, or with a mixture of molasses, water and yeast, or with any other gas-producing substance. One might work an engine with the compressed air of a bicycle tire, for that matter.

Gas of this kind should be gener Gas of this kind should be generated in a strong eartherware jug that will stand a great deal of pressure. Quarter fill the jug with water, pour in molasses enough to increase the liquid one-half and add a small quantity of yeast. Such a mixture will begin immediately to ferment. A powerful gas will be developed. Meantime the mouth of the jug should be connected to the steam tube of the engine by a stout rubber hose. There should be a stopcock either on the engine by a stoul rubber hose. There should be a stopcock either on the engine or at the mouth of the jug, so that the flow of gas can be controlled. Simple as the arrangement may appear, it will result in the engine running quite rapidly as long as the gas holds out. Of course when it is all gone you may turn off the stopcock and allow more gas to be reproduced in the jug. In the absence of an engine (which, by the way, can be purchased for less than a dollar) you might operate a miniature fountain by using a fine quill in the cork. The gas tube in this case should be attached firmly to the lower nozzle of the bottle.

the bottle. It is really surprising how much pressure may be developed in this way. Mellikoff succeeded in inducing the bacteria to generate gas at a pressure of over 60 pounds to the square inch. A sufficient quantity of gas at such an enormous pressure, under certain circumstances, would pull a train of cars. Of course no fermentatrain of cars. Or course no rementa-tion is rapid enough to sustain great pressure very long, although the Rus-sian scientist was able to keep his motor going over 20 hours at a time. —Cleveland Leader.

THE WOMAN UNAFRAID.

Story of a Great-Granddaughter of Chief Justice Marshall.

The cat always lands on her feet,

The Ceta always and so in the rect, the Kentucky woman on her tongue. She is rarely at a loss for a retort, and it's a cold day when she's caught napping on base. Here is a bright little speech gotten off by Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy, "Catherine Moore," of this city. Marshall Hardy, "Catherine Moore," of this city. She paid a visit to Washington recently and was escorted by her kinsman, Maj. Wright, marshal of the United States supreme court, to the chamber. A seat was given her directly under a large bust of Chief Justice Marshall. As she sat there she said to Justice Harlan: "That man was my great-grandfather." Justice Harlan turned on hearing this and whispered to Chief Justice Fuller: "Do vo see that like." Justice Fuller: "Do you see that lit-tle woman seated under a bust of John Marshall? "So are we, brother, or next door to it; and you ought not to have hit upon us as your victims." "Well, your door is more easily opened; that's how it is," was the ancoionies, he was compelied, a to wished their interests to receive the dightest attention; to dance-stitued-ance at the lewest but he put his diguest at a system of business bated for personal piffurence and corruption into one of the severest pieces of trony he ever penned, "It is now more than 170 years since the translation of our common English Bible," he began a paper which he entitled "Proposed New Version of the Bible," "File language in that time is much changed," he continues, "and the style being obsolete and thence less agreeable, is perhaps one reason why the reading of that excellent book is of late so much neglected. I have therefore thought it would be well to procure a new version; in which, preserving the sense, the turn of phrase and manner of expression should be modern. I do not pretend to have the necessary abilities for such a work myself; I throw out the hint for the consideration of the learned; and only venture to send you few years of the first chanter of nunt for the consideration of learned; and only venture to send a few verses of the first chapte Job, which may serve as a sampl the kind of version I would rec mend."

Then followed seven paraphrased erses, which, without the least hange of words, he made to become a savage satire on the monarchial sys tem of government. Yet such was the skill with which it was written that the editor to whom it was sent printed it in good faith as a genuine proposal, and it has since been fre proposal, and it has since been fre-quently cited as a serious endeavor of its author. Thus one of his recent biographers devotes three pages to abuse of the travesty. Something Matthew Arnold wrote is still more

Matthew Arnold wrote is still more amusing:

"I remember the relief with which, after long feeling the sway of Frank-lin's imperturbable common sense, I came upon a project of his for a new version of the Book of Job, to replace the old version, the style of which, says Franklin, has become obsolete, and thence less agreeable. 'I give,' he continues, 'a few verses, which may serve as a sample of the kind of he continues, 'a few verses, which may serve as a sample of the kind of version I would recommend. We all recollect the famous verse in our translation: "Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, Doth Job fear God for nought?" Franklin makes this: "Does your majesty imagine that Job's good conduct is the effect of mere personal attachment and affection?" I well remember how, when first I read that I drew a deep breath of relief, and said tomyself, 'After all, there is a stretch of humanity beyond Franklin's victorious good sense.' The lover of literary enrosities may be almost sorry that Franklin's proposal never got any further."

It is a pity that Franklin could not read both these judgments, for no one would have enjeyed such "literary curiosities" more, and that he should have successfully deceived biographers and critics is only a further monument to his elegements.

biographers and critics is only a fur-ther monument to his cleverness in

Franklin attempted a far more difficult piece of Biblical revision, however, than a paraphrase of Job, by rewriting the Lord's Prayer. His draft, which has been strangely overlooked by his editors and biographers, though imperfect, gives reasons for each suggested change, too long to be included here, though most interesting. The text of the prayer as for esting. The text of the prayer, as far as extant, was: "Heavenly Father. May all re-vere thee. And become thy dutiful Children and faithful Subjects. May Children and fattiful Supplemental thy Laws be obeyed on Earth as perthy Laws be obeyed on Earth as perfectly as they are in Heaven. Provide for us this Day as thou hast hitherto daily done. Forgive us our Trespasses, and enable us likewise to forgive those that offend us. Keep us out of Temptation."

Morbid jeal guy was found to be at the loot of so single crime and insanty. The sand the loot of so single crime and insanty. The lost it was thought best to make a thorough analysis of it.

Dr. Keyes proceeded to collect and classify the different species of jeal-coay. First he came upon the greenest variety of all, which he called "jealousy of the senses." This is the most brigal of all, and often leads to murdarand shield.

A slightly peler and less poisonous variety Dr. Keyes labeled "jealousy of the heart." This kind is sentimental rather than of the raging, physical sort. This is much less harmful than year of the heart." This kind is sentimental rather than of the raging, physical sort. This is much less harmful than year of the senses. But, as its name implies, it causes no end of "heart burnings."

The most deadly kind of jealousy of all Dr. Keyes found to be insane jealousy. This is often a spontaneous outburst, and is part at times of a general persecutional state. Particularly is this so of alcoholic insanity. This is true of 80 per cent. of alcohol psycho-degenerates, and jealousy appears offen at the onset of intoxication and leads the patient to bloody, sometimes mortal, acts against the innoent victims of their suspicion.

In insane jealousy the imagination has for its cause some infidelity of the loved one—a creation of the mind. Under the mastery of this strong emotion what chimes in with it is retained and other things kept out of sight. Then all that he sees, hears, or feels, the unsuspected per time of a handler is feel-feet in a didner is feel-fee

THE UMBRELLA'S STORY.

Has Been Popular in England Little Over a Century.

The umbrella is of very ancient origin. It is found in designs on Greek and Etruscan vases, and is traced and is traced back to ancient Egypt, the mother of arts. Its first use was undoubtedly to protect from the burning rays of the tropical sun; its Latin derivation the tropical sun; its Latin derivation is from umbra, a shade. The English got the umbrella from France, and the first man who carried this rain protection in England was Joseph Hanway, who began the practice when a young man and continued it until his death in 1784. Hanway was famous in his day as a philanthropist, but he is remembered now, quite as much for his persistence in carrying an umbrella shal beating down the prejudice against the use of it, as for prejudice against the use of it, as for rejudice against the use of it, as for iy, of his purely beneficent deeds hen Hanway died all the people in England carried umbrellas, and they have continued to do so ever since. Indeed, nowadays England would not seem England without the ever-present umbrella.

Though the umbrella came from the east, reaching first Italy, then Spain and France mid afterward England and Germany, the pendulum now is swinging back again, and the last commercial statistics show that the city of Paris is exporting 600,000 umbrellas annually to Turkey, while in England in one year $19,000 umbrellas were manufactured for shipment to Burmah. — John Gilmer Speed, in Woman's Home Companion.

Sir Francis Crossley, the rich carpet manufacturer of Halifax, England, was proud of the fact that his father had been a hand-worker at the loom, and his mother a domestic servant with yearly wages of ten pounds (850). He built a plantial residence, and offered his widowed mother the best apartment therein. She er the best apartment therein. ### STRONG MARKET.

The tobacco market this week was strong and decidedly more active than for some time past. All grades of both leaf and lugs sold at from 25c to 50c higher than last week. The outlook is more flattering and a better feeling in the trade is looked for throughout the balance of the season. As Tuesday was a legalfholiday sales occurred only two days of the week, Wednesday and Thursday, but they amounted to about 600 hogsheads. Receipts were heavy and will continue good to about 600 hogsneaus. Accepts were heavy and will oontinue good until all of the '98 crop is delivered. Good to medium leaf is quoted from $8.50 to 6.50, common to medium leaf from 6.50 to 5, good lugs from 5.25 to 3.75 and common to medium leaf from 5.50 to 3.75 and common to medium lugs from 3.50 to 2.50

OLD SOLDIERS

Have a Pleasant Picnic Near Kelly on Tuesday,

About 25 old soldiers met at Sadoler's Grove, near Kelly, on the fourth and enjoyed a picnic in the woods. It was agreed to hold another and a larger reunion next year and a committee with S. E. Chastain at the head was appointed. Mr. Chastain will appoint other members and the plan is to work up a general reunion of veterans on both sides of the civil war and also of the young veterans of the Spanish war.
